Additional Information on Disclosure of Conditional Share Subscription Agreement of PT
Fintek Karya Nusantara by Investors

In order to comply with the Bapepam-LK's Regulation Number IX.E.1 regarding Affiliated Transaction and Certain Transaction with Conflict of Interest, we provide additional information in regard with Approach and Valuation Method used by Certified and Registered Public Appraisal Yanuar Bey dan Rekan ("KJPP Y&R"), as follows:

Method used in the valuation of Intangible Asset ("ATB") related IT Platform is the Replacement Cost New Method. The implementation of this method is based on the identification of valued ATB, namely:

- a. Software is an ATB that supports businesses to generate revenue, not in the form of contracts or marketing networks.
- b. Software generally ATB that continues to develop rapidly, so to appraise the functional value is not appropriate to use the revenue approach.

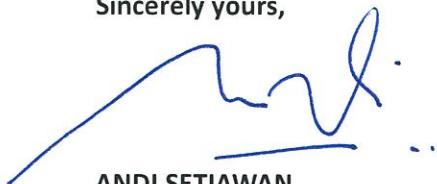

In case of appraisers using the cost approach, then the condition apply that the appraisal cannot use the cost-based approach to appraise intangible asset that its service potential is not equivalent to the acquisition price, such as brand development cost or publishing title that are difficult to determine and valuing intangible asset which last for years and does not make positive contribution to the company's revenue. Examples of intangible assets that might be used in the cost approach are self-developed software, web pages and trained workforce.

The cost-based approach can only be used in terms of meeting the requirements of at least the intangible assets doesn't have any revenue that can be identified or do not directly generate cash flow, feasible comparable market data on intangible assets is not available and the equivalent and similar last transaction on the intangible assets is not sufficient enough to support the market approach.

This information is additional information to Affiliated-party Transaction Disclosure regarding Disclosure of Conditional Share Subscription Agreement of PT Fintek Karya Nusantara by The Investors.

Sincerely yours,

ANDI SETIAWAN
